

Rule Number Two: Lessons I Learned in a Combat Hospital

When Lieutenant Commander Heidi Krafts twin son and daughter were fifteen months old, she was deployed to Iraq. A clinical psychologist in the US Navy, Krafts job was to uncover the wounds of war that a surgeon would never see. She put away thoughts of her children back home, acclimated to the sound of incoming rockets, and learned how to listen to the most traumatic stories a war zone has to offer. One of the toughest lessons of her deployment was perfectly articulated by the TV show M*A*S*H: There are two rules of war. Rule number one is that young men die. Rule number two is that doctors cant change rule number one. Some Marines, Kraft realized, and even some of their doctors, would be damaged by war in ways she could not repair. And sometimes, people were repaired in ways she never expected. RULE NUMBER TWO is a powerful firsthand account of providing comfort amidst the chaos of war, and of what it takes to endure.
